

John Malone is a native of Ireland, where he grew up hunting native pheasant. When he immigrated to the United States, he continued hunting with Pointers and Setters, eventually becoming interested in American Field walking trials. After ten years competing in walking trials, he began to compete in American Field horseback stakes, which he has enjoyed for the last ten years. John has judged countless AKC and American Field trials; he has judged numerous Classics, as well as both Open and Amateur American Field Championship stakes.
